NACHS

In order to express our sincere appreciation for all the help you have given the students of N. A. C. H. S. we dedicate this 1962 Vespa to you, Mrs. Joyce Dudeck.

It is through your untiring help that many things are made possible. You have helped the Vespa staff assemble and complete this book which we dedicate to you. You are also responsible for many other things in our school and for this we say Thank You!

Oh! Those test grades were worse than I thought they would be.

Nothing like a good laugh in Junior English.

Countdown, 10 . . . 9 . . . 8 . . . 7 . . . 6 . . .

Gosh! Doesn't anyone in here know the answer???

Hey Jo, are they listening to you are Mr. Knewitz?

Teaching Civilization,

Bob, what do you think you're doing???

In order to graduate a student of worthy citizenship in our country and the world, a school must give him the knowledge and ability to communicate effectively, to read and understand, to know of the workings of our society, and to have a usable knowledge of the past. These are the responsibilities given to the teachers of the humanities - Miss Dorothy House, Mr. Robert Knewitz, and Mr. William Luther.

Gee, don't these freshmen work hard?

Now why don't the sophomores work like that?

What's a class without girls?

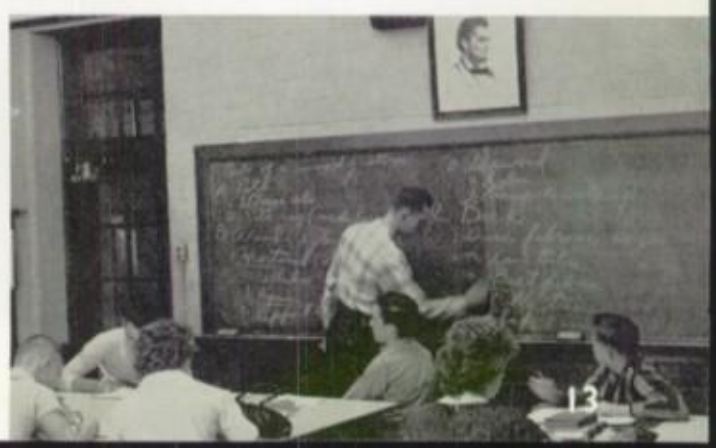
Last one done cleans up the mess.

The master at work!

Blueprinting Civilization,

Looking at the recent advancement in technology and engineering, one cannot deny the importance of science and math. At NACHS these departments are headed by Mr. Evens and Mr. Free. These men have given themselves to the task of keeping their departments up-to-date and to impressing the importance of these subjects on their students.

"Please, Mr. Evans," cries Bob, "this test is long enough already."



Hey Ray, keep those eyes on your BOOK, not the keys!

For the student who plans to enter into a career immediately after completing high school, the training in the field he may wish to enter is widely varied. The new equipment, added yearly to the agriculture, industrial arts, home economics, bookkeeping, and typing rooms enables the student to become acquainted with a variety of equipment. But the equipment would be useless if the teachers did not give the students a varied and comprehensive study of their fields.

Gosh, another test?

My aren't we working hard!

Building

Gee, doesn't this look like an officer???

Hey, that's quite an invention!

Are you sure about that?

Mrs. Binder gives her students a taste of modern homemaking from diets to diapers while Mr. Pieron covers projects in woodworking and metal working to mechanical drawings. Mr. Petrowich also covers a wide variety of fields including the latest scientific farming method and the methods resulting in the field practice (experiment). All this falls right in line with a high schools' major task of giving a student a taste of a variety of fields and then helping him to gain an insight into the problems and methods encountered in each so he may choose a suitable occupation.

Who took my ripper?

Hey girls, you forgot the ingredients!

At least some people work!

Civilization,

The Future Builders of America???

Hey Dave! Is that a test you're taking?

Geniuses at work???

Practice makes perfect - OK, OK, so we need more practice . . . Oh! These Monday mornings are rough . . . Surely, guys, you can drown out that little squeak?!

Marching, concerts, contests, and festivals - these are activities in which our band and chorus participates. The job of producing a high degree of quality for these falls squarely on the shoulders of our directors, Mrs. Frances Hunsaker and Mr. Don Sexton, who have proved themselves more than equal to the task of producing the level of music that is interesting to play and enjoyable to listen to.

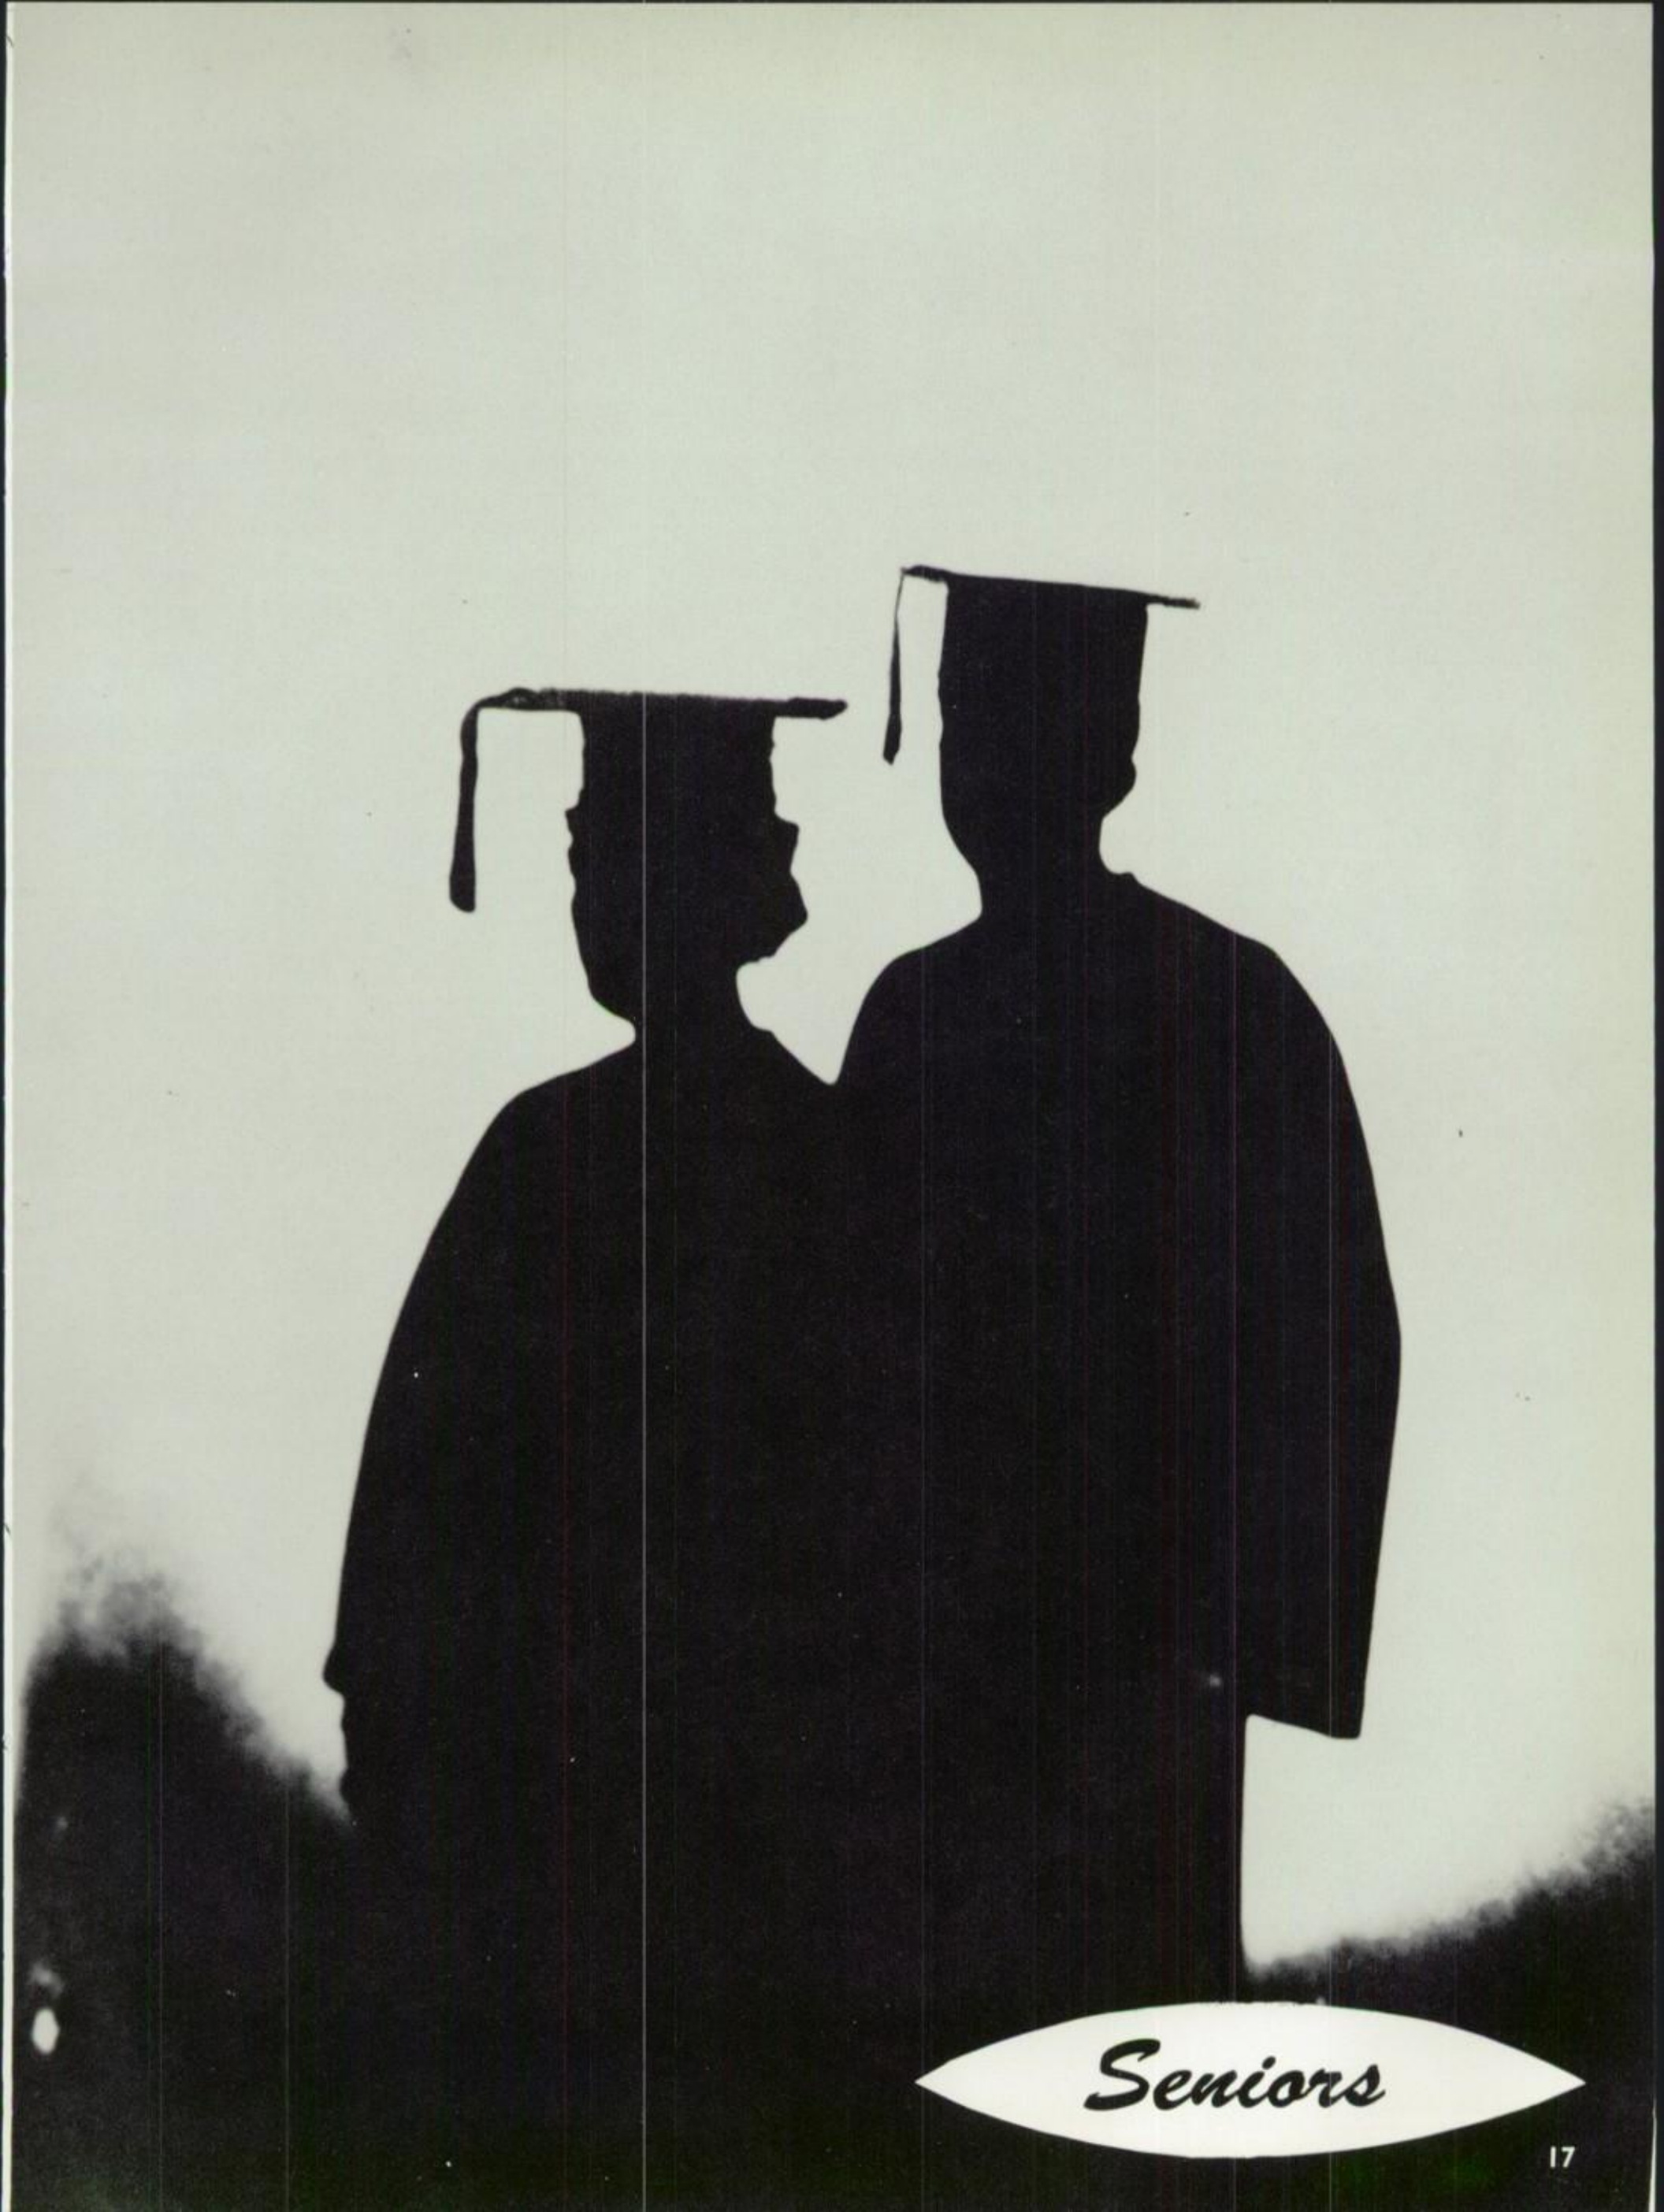
At NACHS, the facilities for a varied and effective physical education course are available and greatly supplemented by the instruction of Mrs. Patrica Wagner and Mr. Don Otness. Our PE students are exposed to a wide variety of skills ranging from competitive team sports, such as volleyball, to a single competition, as badminton, and outdoor recreation such as speedball to indoor skills on the highbar and trampoline.

Enjoying Civilization.

The chorus tries out a new piece for contest.

Hurry, get the ball over the net!

Boy! PE sure is rough.



Seniors

Senior Class History

In 1958 NACHS was invaded by 43 wild human beings, commonly called Freshmen. These creatures, having arrived dressed in the most outlandish costumes imaginable, spent one entire day shining shoes. They also spent the entire year trying to force basketball fans to eat hotdogs and ice cream. Apparently trying to adopt some form of self-government, they elected Carol Rogers, President; Janet Rae Van Hise, Vice-President; Lois Muench, Secretary; Wayne Nadler, Treasurer. Mrs. Joyce Dudeck and Mr. Joseph Pieron were given the harrowing task of trying to control these oddballs at hayrides, skating parties, and class outings.

By the next year, more advanced stages of civilization were in sight - but the number of tribesmen, 37, was smaller. Among the missing were John Thrush, Charles Hobbs, Tommy Gordon, Carol Rogers, Judy Weidemann, and Janet Rae Van Hise. A shake-up in officers had resulted in Ray Hanft's being elected President; Bob Emge, Vice-President; Judy Anderson, Secretary; Lois Muench, Treasurer. Class rings were chosen. While eagerly awaiting the arrival of these tribal symbols (which would so rapidly be bestowed on natives of lesser tribes), the members were just as eagerly awaiting some source of payment for those tokens. These Sophomores were really out to make money; as the Work Day proved, they didn't do any work - just collected money. They seemed to have developed a sense of social responsibility - the suffering endured by spectators at the games was alleviated by constant administration of popcorn; monetary recompense was, however, extracted from willing victims.

Returning to school the next year, the group found it was now comprised of 33 strong and mighty (?) Juniors. Officers were Peg Frech, President; Ray Hanft, Vice-President; LaDoris Sauerwein, Secretary; Lois Muench, Treasurer. The class meetings had by then become sufficiently civilized and orderly to permit planning a prom, "La Palaise de Neptune" being the theme. The class play, DEAR DIARY, was a comedy (intentional), directed by Mrs. Cordelia Favre and Mr. William Luther. The magazine sales contest was close, but the Juniors graciously gave way to the Seniors. That year, the Juniors found they could not make the candy and soda sold at ball games bring in sufficient funds, so retaliation was effected by the sale of pizza.

The Senior year began with a thriving victory, as the Junior Class was given a sound thrashing in the magazine sales contest. The number was decreased by one as a result of the loss of Karen Brugere. During this year we also lost one of our sponsors, Mrs. Joyce Dudeck. We were all sorry to see her leave, but we are sure she is happy. Since she did resign as a teacher, Mrs. Kathryn Canning has taken her place both as a teacher and as our sponsor. Officers for the year were Peg Frech, President; Ron Yesley, Vice-President; Doris Neff, Secretary; Lois Muench, Treasurer. By now enough hotdogs, popcorn, ice cream, candy, soda, and pizza had been sold to permit progressing to coat-checking for a very small profit. Funds were sufficient to insure a wonderful class trip; and the class play, THE UGLY AMERICAN, coached by Miss Dorothy House and Mr. William Luther, went over big (mostly through type casting). So in 1962, 33 refined Seniors left NACHS to the mercy of another class of wild, oddball, UH . . . Uh . . . What are they??? Oh, yeah; Freshmen!

It's the Greatest to Be a Senior!!

I guess we Seniors sure showed the Juniors who were tops!!

Dig those crazy bongos!

This darn pen won't work again!

Just a little more powder right there, Dave.

Diana looks so lonesome, why doesn't someone help her take care of the coat check?

All in favor of going on the class trip, say "aye"!

Help! We've been invaded!

Those four years were fun, but I'm glad they're over. Here's to the future.

It's Great to Be an Upperclassman!

What???

Are things that bad, that the Juniors have to buy their own candy?

Is this what you call working?

Are these JUNIOR girls???

Junior Beauties???

Gosh! I don't know how to open this thing!

Hey, Ev, your slip is showing.

Boy! These class rings are real neat!!

It's O.K. to Be an Underclassman

Naughty, Naughty, Freshmen, eating where you're not supposed to.

An ORDERLY Freshman class meeting???

Aw, come on, Virgil, you can do it.

Hey! I thought the Freshmen sold ice cream and hot dogs?

Smile, girls; business will be better.

Is this class in session???

Were you tots playing in the mud again???

Come on, Kids, smile a little.

Isn't it just like THAT Junior boy to hang around all those Sophomore girls???

The chorus and band represent individual and group achievement. Each member of these respective organizations must measure up to certain standards as individual musicians. Then these personalities and temperaments are forged into a musical unit. All these requirements were met last year and the result was the winning of the State Sweepstakes award. The molding of the separate qualities and personalities of the members of the band and chorus into a group as we had last year, takes a great deal of work and musical ability. We can all feel proud of the musicians in charge of our band and chorus and their ability to produce the high quality of music that has always been presented.

Dance Band

Going into their second year the Combo-Tones, the High School Dance Band, have created a ripple in N. A. C. H. S. Introducing themselves at their own dance last year, they made a hit, and now have enough offers to keep them busy. The group formed by Don Sexton, Band Instructor, forfeited many, many noon hours practicing. Their theme - "Mood Indigo."

MAJORETTE: Jane Adamson, Ricky Stolte, and Mary Lee Falkenheim

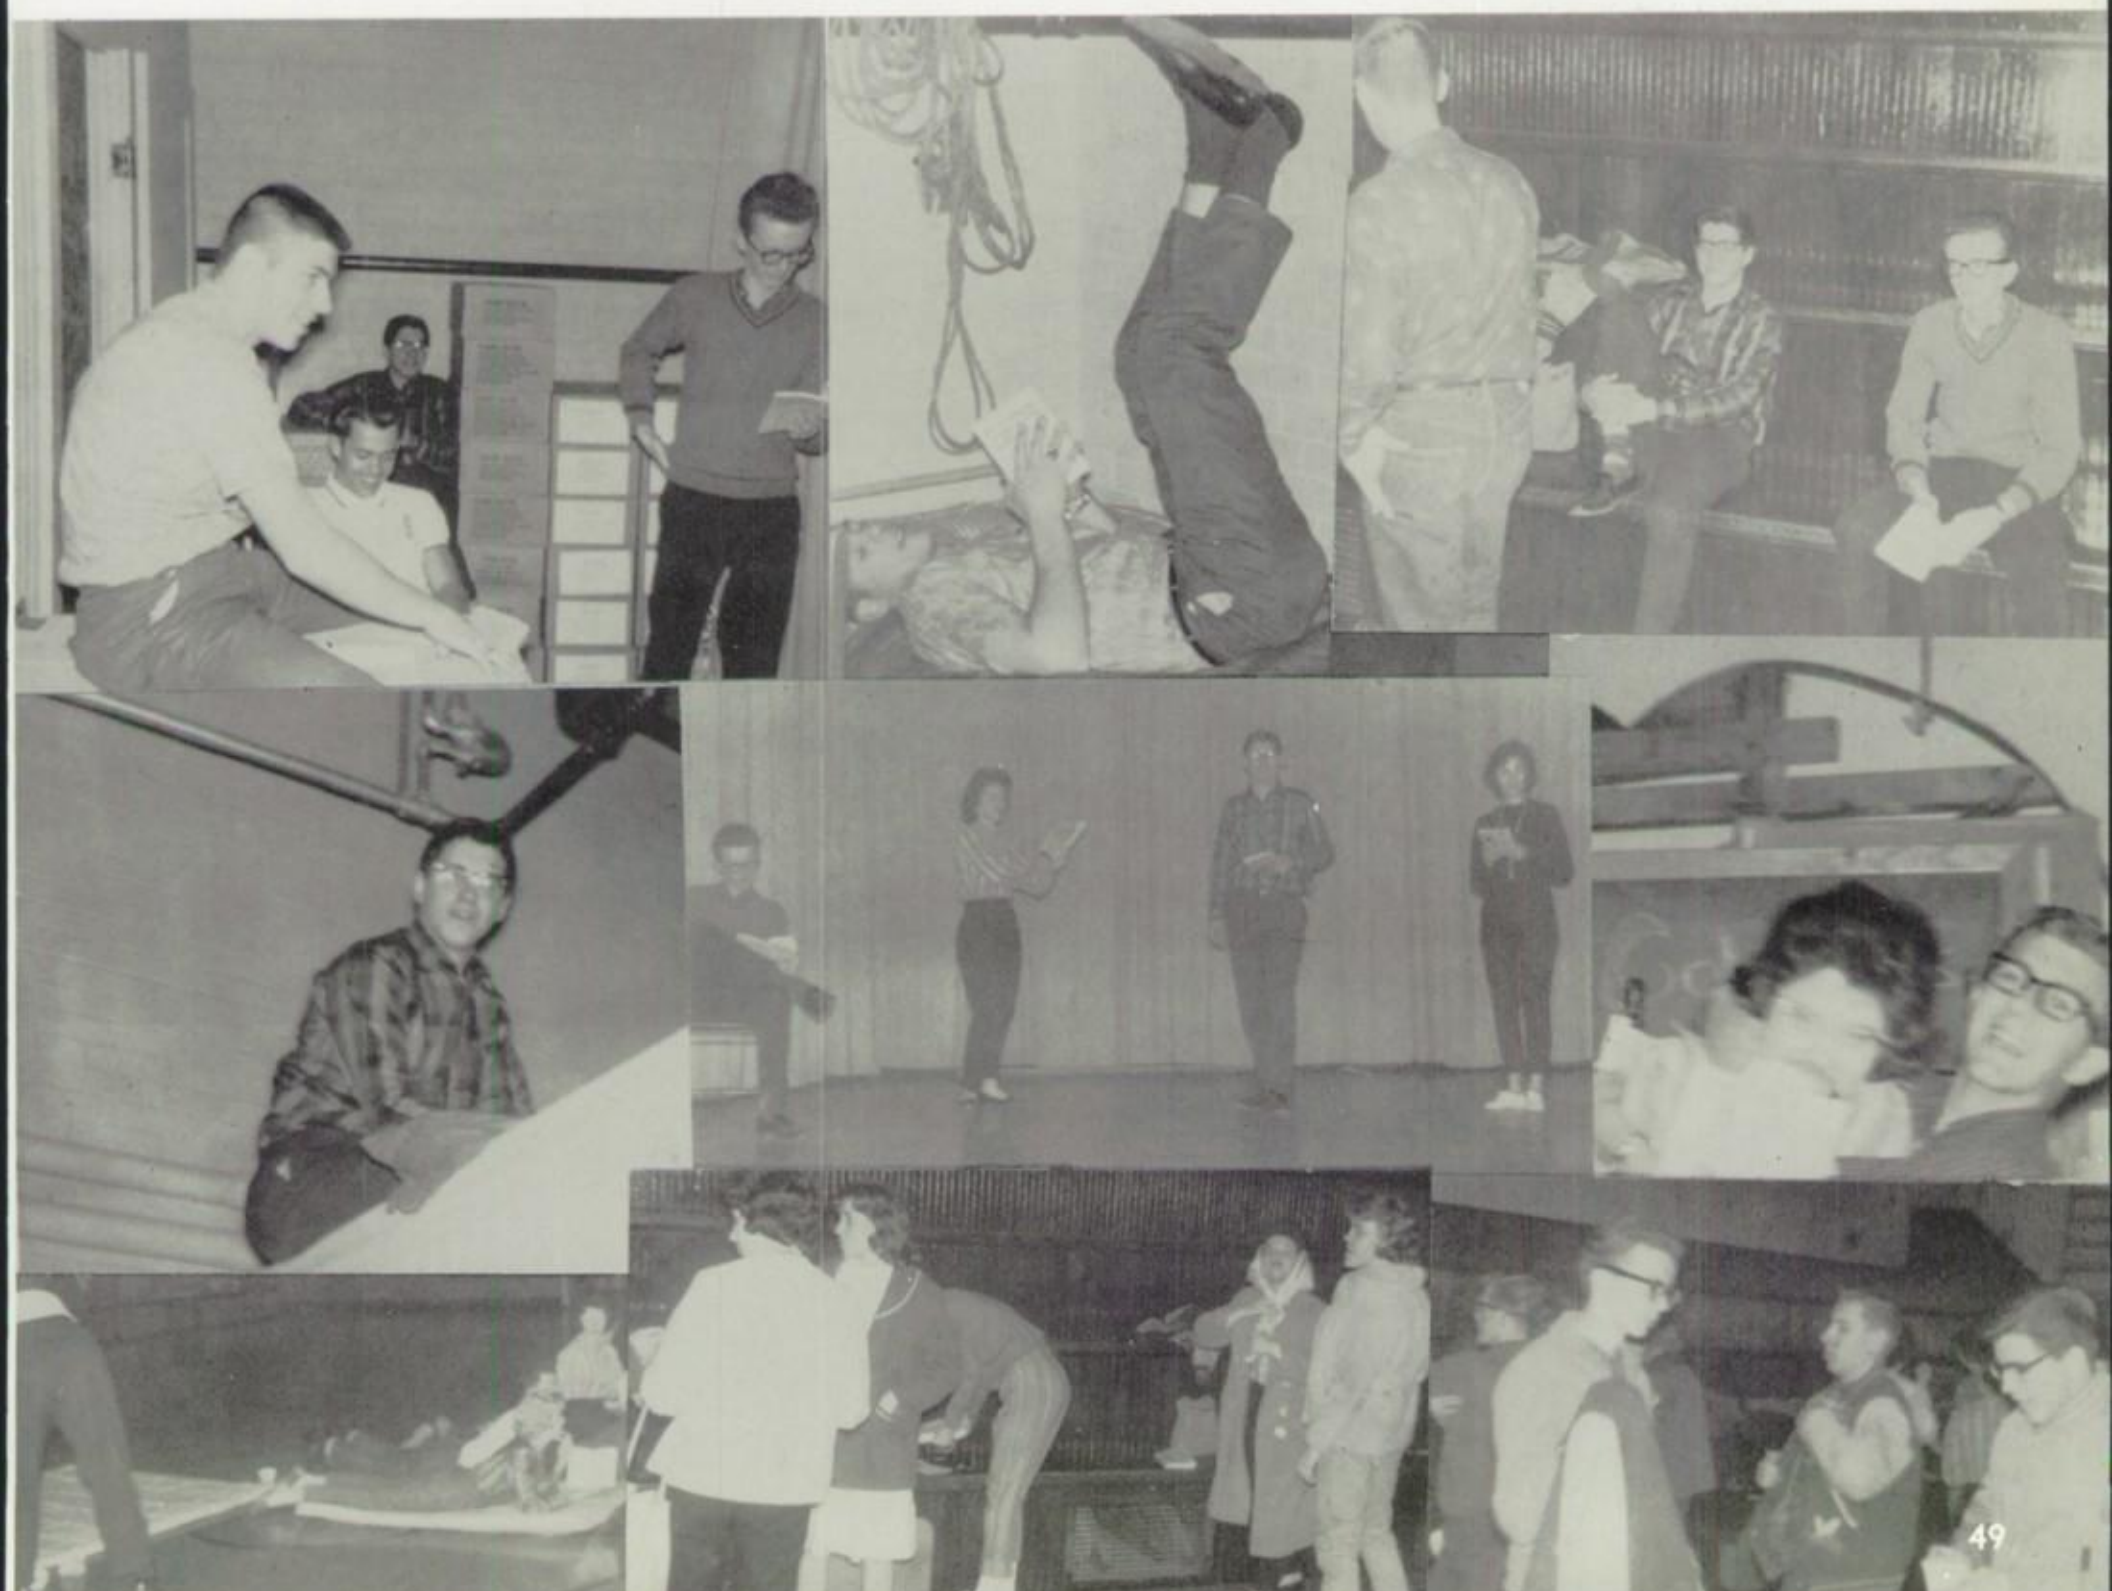
THE FIRST PRACTICE

Everyone working?? Hardly!! . . . Comfy? . . . Can't be that bad, can it? . . . Look, everyone, I'm a - - - !!! . . . Such a feeling of high drama that is conveyed by these dedicated expressions . . . We caught you! . . . Is that you, Mr. Luther? . . . Is that you, Miss House? . . . Mad rush to Ed's.



Judy Schopfer and Bill Sickmeier reigned as king and queen of LA PALISE DE NEPTUNE during the exciting and eventful evening of the 1961 Junior and Senior Prom.

As each couple walks into the sea of Neptune an aura of splendor is evoked by the beauty of the deep.

A beguiling mermaid sitting upon a chest of treasure, watches over the ocean as a guard for King Neptune.

Swimming around in a daze, you suddenly find a sunken ship before you, with ghostly pirates waiting to serve your every command.

LA PALISE DE NEPTUNE stands in royal luster, greater than any kingly mansion above the sea, with the fish and shells enhancing the golden castle.

But the most bewitching sight in Neptune's sea is the "great clam shell" awaiting its honor as the throne of the new King Neptune, Bill Sickmeier, and his queen, Judy Schopfer.

When the dancing and music ceased for the evening, all went to enjoy the movie "Song Without End, " returning later to receive their feast from King Neptune in the dewy light of morning.

Hey, if you can't hide the bleachers, you're just going to have to decorate them.

(!#####) OPPS! Got my hand caught in the ringer again!

(You think of a caption, we can't)

BEFORE!

AFTER!

'Would you mind putting your feet on the floor, Bob."

Ssh, you want everyone to hear???

Neptune's ghostly pirates, Bob Main, Bonnie Bald, Joe Behnken, and Charlotte Cortner, are busy serving the punch.

Where did everybody go??

Complicated, isn't it??

Can everyone find his mouth at 3:00 a. m.

The Night of February 17th

Gosh, this decorating is dangerous; but fun!!

What a mess! Do you think we will ever get this gym decorated?

The FHA sponsor, Mrs. Sandra Binder, and her husband sure look happy or is it relieved?

Why is there always a large crowd around the refreshment table?

Our music makers, The Teen Tones, pause for some refreshments.

Hey, you culprits! Don't steal the decorations.

The '61 retiring queen, Pat Hesse, crowns our new queen, Ev Kayson, while Jeff Crawford and Bob Emge, respectively, look on.

Her Majesty, Queen Evelyn, and her court.

The queen and her court claim the first dance after the coronation.

That's what they do during half time.

Careful, Dave, they sure would like to get that ball.

Okay, OK, break it up!

Gee, isn't our team the greatest?

Keep your eyes on the ball, boys.

Please, Mr. Sexton, will you stand up straight when directing us!

Don't our cheerleaders look sharp?

Surprise!!
